Former VP at Pfizer:

"The Single Most Important Message I've Ever Written"

By Dr. Michael Yeadon

Dear everyone, who is nervously looking around and is asking "What the hell is going on?"

I hope this isn't too controversial. It's certainly frightening, but I believe we are still on the right side of disaster & if enough of us become aware of what is happening here & everywhere in the democratic world, we can recover the situation. We really don't have long. I believe it's likely things will change irretrievably over this coming winter. Hence this urgent and unusual request.

Everything that's happened and is happening becomes much simpler and it all makes sense, only when you force yourself to think the impossible.

If you experimentally adopt the position that our government is actively working to harm us, to dismantle modern society, and enslave all people in a digitally controlled totalitarian world, it all fits. Nothing is surplus.

Even if your immediate response is that this is absurd, please try it for a day or so.

I ask you further to adopt the experimental position that the media, controlled by just six global corporations, all allied to a single global organization you've all heard of, is relentlessly lying to you and has been doing so for over 2.5 years. Same for the internet, controlled by fewer global corporations, also all allied to that same global organization.

Because I am certain it's true. I am certain because this all started with a scientific fraud relating to a virus, augmented it with a relentless campaign of fear, imposed measures known to be useless, which wrecked the economy and smashed civil society, then coerced most to accept useless, unnecessary, ineffective and deliberately dangerous injections. Obviously, this is an odious crime. Nothing like it has ever happened.

Screenshot of Dr. Michael Yeadon during an interview he gave earlier this year to CHD.TV

I've been 41 years in life sciences from training to successful biotech CEO and was worldwide research head and Vice President of Pfizer's respiratory unit (1995-2011).

I have absolutely no incentive to say any of this if I wasn't certain.

I am certain. This all took place "in my wheelhouse", my domain of expertise.

Please consider what I've said.

''I've given over 70 interviews, all censored. I've been fully smeared. It's propaganda. It tells you what they're capable of.

Here's what Pfizer's former board member wrote about my accomplishments: (See Forbes: Turning Pfizer Discards Into Novartis Gold: The Story Of Ziarco https://www.forbes.com/sites/johnlamattina/2017/03/15/turning-pfizer-discards-into-novartis-gold-the-story-of-ziarco/)

Do I sound like a fool?

Many have asked why people didn't resist tyrants in the past. Partly it is fear. But it's more than that. It's those normal people, like you and me, who simply cannot imagine being so evil. We trust in humanity. And so we should. Most people are good. Few are truly terrifyingly horrible. But some are. It's the inability to believe it's happening that really stopped people objecting when they should, when the evidence was unmistakable but had not yet quite reached their door, their family.

They are coming for you and your children. It is happening again. There's ample evidence emerging of long-term, patient planning. I'm so sorry.

It's now up to you. I genuinely don't see what else I can do.

#TRUDEAUMUSTGO takes #1 trending spot on Twitter in Canada for 5 days

By Tea Lynn Moore

With over 500,000 tweets, Canadian citizens have taken to the platform calling for the resignation of Prime Minister Justin Trudeau. Canadians are leaving short blurbs about their lives and calling out Trudeau's hatefulness towards Canadians. Calling unvaxxed protesters a "fringe minority" with "unacceptable views" and telling a Quebec tv station that the unvaxxed "don't believe in science and are very often misogynistic and racist" are just some of the many comments Trudeau has made throughout the plandemic to incite division among Canadians.

@kylekemper | "I'm a 37 year old father of 4.5, entrepreneur, crypto OG & proud Canadian. For 2 decades I've been calling BS on the corporatocracy and my brother @JustinTrudeau has become a captive in their scheme. It's time #TrudeauMustGo and for Canada to become a sovereign nation again."

@JK_Hufnagel | "I am a 43 year old blue collar worker. Father of 3 angels (our boy is #autistic) and married for over 20 years. I coach female and My wife is a nurse. According to @JustinTrudeau we are misogynistic, racist and our family should not be tolerated in society. #TrudeauMustGo"

@masterknia | "I am a 48 yr old Human Rights Advocate and Defence Lawyer. I raised 2 children as a single father, I fight against oppression daily. I dedicate the majority of my time to public service. Labeling people misogynist and racists for a belief in choice is divisive. #TrudeauMustGo"

@TheoFleury14 | "I'm a 54 year old father of four, ex professional athlete SC Champ and Olympic gold medalist who has worked in the field of trauma, mental health & addiction for the last 14 years helping people heal from trauma & #TrudeauMustGo thinks I'm an extremist who needs to be dealt with."

Decades of Vaccine Damage

By Dr. Joseph Mercola | takecontrol.substack.com

The first U.S. shots for COVID-19 were given in December 2020 to health care workers in New York. In the short 20 months that followed, a lot has been learned about the jabs and the adverse effects that have devastated those who have taken them.

The sheer number of adults and children affected is dramatically higher than in any year since the vaccine adverse event reporting system (VAERS) began recording events in 1990.

As of August 12, 2022, there have been over 1.3 million adverse event reports after the COVID jab, including over 30,000 deaths and over 56,000 individuals who are now permanently disabled. The pandemic has demonstrated that many physicians were unaware of the existence of VAERS, which is co managed by the CDC and FDA.

In the past, the system's intended use had been to detect "unusual or unexpected patterns of adverse event reporting that might indicate a possible safety problem with a vaccine."

However, it's apparent as the FDA, CDC and other public health agencies ignore the number of reports following the COVD jab, that the system may be recording damage, but the public health officials are ignoring it.

As you consider the documented evidence below presented by the Children's Health Defense (CHD)(https://childrenshealthdefense.org), it begs the question — since the damage and devastation from the COVID shot is obviously being ignored by public health officials, how long have they been ignoring vaccine damage in our most vulnerable? According to CHD and the National Vaccine Information Center (NVIC), it's been going on for decades.

Factors Involved in Vaccine Safety

There's no question the number of vaccinations required for children just to enter school has jumped dramatically from the 1970s to the present time. According to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, the number of vaccines increased from four in the 1940s, to seven in the 1970s and then to 14 by 2020.

But, according to CHD, that vaccine schedule includes 50 shots by age 6 and 69 shots by age 18. When you add all the antigens — the weakened or inactive microbes of the diseases that trigger an immune response — to the adjuvants — foreign substances added to a vaccine to help the antigens create a stronger immune response — you have a staggering amount of foreign substances being pumped into your child over a very relatively short period of time.

As CHD points out, some children appear able to handle this, but many do not, which leads to another factor: how vaccine safety is tested and proved. Unfortunately, while you may think that independent research tests and supports safety, this is not true. Actually that's all done by the vaccine manufacturers themselves. According to the FDA:

"Before the FDA licenses (approves) a vaccine, the vaccine is tested extensively by its manufacturer. FDA scientists and medical professionals carefully evaluate all the available information about the vaccine to determine its safety and effectiveness."

When you read the last line, you'll notice they evaluate "all available information." As the CHD points out, this does not include all the information from testing. Let's consider the current release of Pfizer documents that were used to approve Comirnaty, the Pfizer COVID-19 jab.

Operation Rescue reported the data revealed that 270 pregnant women were vaccinated and a large percentage — 238 (88%) — of those were not followed up. This lack of follow-up is concerning since the data also showed that 124 of the 270 had some adverse reaction to the shot; 75 were serious and 49 were nonserious.

The outcome of only 34 pregnancies was recorded and 28 of those babies died in utero or at birth. Of the 34 pregnancies only one was recorded as normal and five were recorded in Pfizer data as "pending." This is the data that the FDA used to determine that the shot was "safe" for pregnant women. Yet, the data show that from 82% to 97% of the documented outcomes resulted in death.

This demonstrates that even when the FDA has the data, the results of the analysis that leads to the statement "safe and effective" are questionable. When the FDA approves shots based on this flawed data, you must ask yourself how bad is the data Big Pharma is hiding?

Vaccines Do Not Reliably Prevent Disease, but Do Spread It

Another point the CHD makes is that data demonstrate that vaccines do not reliably prevent disease. Not only that, vaccinated people can and do spread the diseases against which they're vaccinated. If you need a current example, consider the COVID shot, which the CDC acknowledged is not effective for disease prevention:

"CDC's COVID-19 prevention recommendations no longer differentiate based on a person's vaccination status because breakthrough infections occur, though they are generally mild, and persons who have had COVID-19 but are not vaccinated have some degree of protection against severe illness from their previous infection."

"...you have a staggering amount of foreign substances being pumped into your child over a very relatively short period of time."

The CHD goes on to show several examples of vaccinated people who got the disease they were vaccinated against, for example, measles. Statistics from the CDC showed up to 30% of measles cases in 2019 were in people who were vaccinated against measles. The CHD cites four more cases in which researchers documented measles in individuals who were vaccinated.

Unfortunately, although vaccines are supposed to protect vulnerable people, those who receive certain vaccines can spread the diseases in a process called shedding. According to the CDC, individuals given a live attenuated influenza vaccine can shed the virus and spread the illness.

The CHD also notes other viruses that can shed or spread after vaccination include measles, rubella, chickenpox, rotavirus and shingles.

Disease Decline Not Related to Vaccines

Probably just as important as the fact that the vaccines are not always safe, do not always protect against the disease and may cause shedding and spreading of the illness, is that government data show the vaccine program does not deserve the credit for alleviating problems in the U.S. against contagious diseases.

In fact, when you look at the data, it's apparent that public health experts have lied about the importance of the vaccine program. As demonstrated by CHD, data from the National Vital Statistics System (NVSS), which is overseen by the CDC, unequivocably show that improvements in hygiene and clean drinking water triggered the decline in mortality from these diseases before the vaccines were even introduced.

Vaccines Are Big Business

In 2009, the Globe and Mail looked at the growth of the vaccine industry and how the H5N1 bird flu contributed to the growth of the flu vaccine industry, which soared 32% every year between 2004 and 2007. At the time, experts estimated the global vaccine industry would top $40 billion by 2012.

In 2022, Fortune Business Insights released data from 2020 and estimated the global vaccine market at $55.44 billion before COVID-19 shots were introduced. They then projected the market would grow to $61.04 billion in 2021 and $125.49 billion by 2028 with an estimated compound annual growth rate of 10.8%, the largest contributor of which would be the COVID-19 shot. The market analysis called this "stellar growth."

In March 2021 Pfizer reported they expected sales of the COVID jab to total $15 billion by the end of the year with a profit margin of 30%. However, by 2022 they had far exceeded expectations. According to Poynter, Moderna reported first quarter earnings in 2022 that were more than triple the same period the last year, earning $5.9 billion in just one quarter.

This was dwarfed by Pfizer's first quarter earnings in 2022 that grew 77% to more than $25 billion compared to the same period in the previous year. According to CNBC, this growth was driven by $13.2 billion in sales of the COVID shot in one quarter, compared to the $15 billion in annual sales they "estimated" for 2021.

The CHD points out that in one year Merck sold $3.15 billion worth of Gardasil. Fierce Pharma reported sales of Gardasil increased by 31% in the first quarter of 2019 after launching the product in China. Merck executives called this "unprecedented."

Note that Gardasil has yet to demonstrate that it's prevented a single case of cancer. Why? To prove its effectiveness against cancer, Merck would have had to wait roughly 35 years — or more — between giving the shot to young females and age 50, when the average woman develops cervical cancer. But they didn't do that because, they said, "studying cancer itself isn't feasible, because it takes too long."

When you understand that Merck having to wait 35 years for a true efficacy finding would cost $3 billion a year in sales over that 35 years, or about $105 billion total, it becomes plain that it's all about the money, not safety or efficacy. Who says vaccines aren't big business?

The CHD also notes the revolving door between health authorities and Big Pharma. Dr. Julie Gerberding was the director of the CDC when Gardasil was approved. The CHD writes:

"Her move from the CDC to Merck significantly increased her income. Apparently, she went from about $172,000 in salary to around $25 million in compensation from stock sales at Merck and CERN. Vaccines make billions of dollars for corporations and millions of dollars for some lucky insiders. If they weren't such "gravy trains" do you really think they would be pushed so hard?"

Parents Must Make Health Decisions

These are just a few of the highlights from an incredibly informative video found on CDH's website. You can watch the video at "https://childrenshealthdefense.org/vaccine-secrets". Here, you'll also discover what the pharmaceutical industry uses for their control in testing vaccines in children — and it isn't a placebo. The CHD also discusses the many dangerous ingredients that are included in manufacturing vaccines, including bird virus and pig virus fragments.

Additionally, they discuss the pitiful compensation process and remuneration that victims receive after being injured — if they are among the lucky few whose injuries are compensated. What this all shows is how imperative it is for parents to do their due diligence before going along with a pediatrician's advice to inject their child with 69 shots before they are aged 18.

Public Health Officials Cash In On Covid

By Janet Mills

"There is no art which one government sooner learns of another than that of draining money from the pockets of the people." - Adam Smith, Scottish Economist and Philosopher, 1776

It would appear as though not much has changed over the past 300 years. Governments still find ways to pick our pockets from every angle, and all current levels of government seem especially adept at this skill.

A look at the recently published Sunshine List (S/L) for 2021 supports Mr. Smith's observation as it shows Public Health administrators being obscenely compensated for their efforts in purportedly fighting Covid.

One of the top earners was Penny Sutcliffe, Medical Officer of Health Sudbury. Her 2021 annual pay increased from $347,324.55 to a whopping $800,726.87. That's right folks, we are looking at an increase of $453,402.32. It was explained that this increase was effective for a 2 year period and that Penny was also doing double duty as the Associate Medical Officer of Health; a role which was vacated in April 2020.This begs the question, if one individual can cover another role for such a sustained period, might that other role be redundant?

Some other notable increases, of which there are many, are as follows:

Ian Arra, Medical Officer and Chief Executive Officer of Grey Bruce; pay increased from $385,349.79 in 2019 to $631,510.22 in 2020, an increase of $246,160.43. This leveled off in 2021 to a pay of $514,572.06; still significantly higher than in 2019.

Mustafa Hirji, Commissioner Public Health, Ministry of Health, Niagara; pay increased from $296,583.32 in 2020 to $457,013.15 in 2021, an increase of $160,429.83.

Lisa Berger, Associate Medical Officer of Health for Toronto; pay increased from $214,809.24 in 2019 to $355,940.01 in 2020, an increase of $141,130.77. This pay leveled off to a 2021 pay of $329,212.93; still significantly higher than the 2019.

Robert Kyle, Commissioner and Medical Officer of Health for the Region of Durham; pay increased from $337,142.41 in 2020 to $535,190.04 in 2021, an increase of $198,047.63.

Elspeth McTavish, Associate Medical Officer of Health for the Region of Durham; pay increased from $246,774.14 in 2020 to $463,598.40 in 2021; a pay increase of $216,824.26.

These are but to name just a few. It should also be noted that most of these people likely worked from home the past couple of years, which would have padded their pockets even more with savings on gas and meals. But they would probably argue that the time they would have spent traveling to and from work or eating lunch was spent working hard at 'protecting the public.'

The Sunshine List includes ten (10) Associate Medical Officers of Health for the City of Toronto whose pay for 2021 totaled $2,890,021.94, which is an average pay of $289,002.19. This includes what appear to be two new hires with a combined salary totaling $386,639. The increase for the remaining eight employees for the two-year period 2019-2021 totaled $1,380,300.64, an average increase of 40.5%. I guess, if the bosses are getting big increases, their seconds-in-command deserve hefty increases as well. It's only fair; and after all, it's only tax dollars.

Exorbitant pay increases

When reviewing the Sunshine List, it's only natural to dwell on the top earners, but closer examination shows these exorbitant increases were prevalent all the way down the Public Health ladder. Take the Region of Durham, Ontario for instance, where the total compensation for 37 individuals was $4,819,617.67 in 2020. This increased to $7,741,615.25 for these 37 individuals in 2021. Four (4) new additions to the S/L accounted for $465,786.98 of the increase while the remaining 33 employees shared in an overly generous increase totaling $2,456,210.60, an average increase of 50.96% per employee.

In addition to the aforementioned top earners, Robert Kyle ($535,190.04) and Elspeth McTavish ($463,598.40), additional examples of the largest increases over a one year period are as follows:

Kavine Thangaraj, Director - Population Health & Chief Nursing Officer, received an increase of 107% from $156,623.05 to $324,125.34.

Rebekah Anne Mills, Assistant Manager - Population Health, received an increase of 135% from $131,154.59 to $308,798.44.

Paula Hanley, Manager - Population Health, received an increase of 93% from $144,060.50 to $277,661.56.

Michelle Martin, Manager - Health Protection received an increase of 100% from $119,532.96 to $239,330.05.

Although Glendene Collins, Manager - Community and Resource Development, is not in Public Health, her pay deserves a spotlight as it increased a whopping 150% from $117,722.52 in 2020 to $294,561.43 in 2021.

These are the amounts paid by the Region of Durham - Public Health for the top 37 earners as reported by the Sunshine List. The salary/wages budget is no doubt even higher when we include workers who make less than the $100,000 Sunshine threshold. This makes one wonder where the funds came from to pay for these large increases and who approved these increases? Will these increases show up on future property tax bills? Were these obscene increases given in the form of one-time bonus payments, or, is the spending so out of control that these increases are permanent and we will be burdened with over-paying these individuals for years and years to come?

This generous bonus payment practice seems to be prevalent in other parts of the country as well. Deena Hinshaw, the Alberta Medical Officer of Health received a 63% bonus, or $227,911, for her 'hard work' during the pandemic.

USA Sunshine List also shows huge salaries for public health officials

Dr Robert Malone, inventor of the MRNA Vaccine and a vocal critic of its current use, recently reported that he reviewed a similar Sunshine List in the United States (see openthebooks.com) and he discovered a similar pattern of high salaries for Medical Officers. It turns out that there are about 300 medical officers and other executives in the US government making in excess of $400,000 per year. He goes on to say that the vast majority of physicians don't make this amount of money annually as the average salary of a physician in the US is around $195,000. Many U.S. corporate executives also don't make this amount of money. So why is the US government paying these huge salaries?

Evidence indicates that large numbers of health bureaucrats from other provinces and other countries have been paid generously during the last few years. Is this money intended to encourage them to "keep up the good work and don't ask questions"? When we look at the robust salaries paid to these health bureaucrats, it makes one think about how much better these resources could have been used in front line settings. The average salary for a nurse in Ontario on July 22, 2022 was $105,831.00. The $2,456,210.60 in additional compensation paid by the Region of Durham Health Department to 33 of its highest paid administrators could have paid for approximately 23 additional nurses. Bill 124 capped nurses' annual salary increases at 1% — too bad there wasn't a similar cap for health bureaucrats.

3 million Canadians lost their jobs

It would be remiss if we did not do a brief comparison of the private sector that fared very poorly over the last few years with countless lockdowns and onerous health measures to comply with. Public sector employment is up 10.8% while private sector employment is only up by 3.2%, and self employment is actually down by 7.2% over the period July 2019-July 2022. Simon Gaudreault, Chief Economist and VP of Research at the Canadian Federation of Independent Business (CFIB) recently told the Epoch Times that when looking at total paid employment during this same 3 year period, about half of it came from the public sector when normally only about one quarter should come from the public sector. The government has the resources to offer high paying jobs with lots of benefits as they can raise taxes or debt to pay for it. Three million Canadians lost their jobs during the Covid period; how many public sector workers lost their jobs or even missed a paycheque? Many private sector employees actually took pay cuts to help save their company and their job. About one third of small/medium businesses had temporary closures due to the pandemic. There were no such efforts made in the public sector.

Innovation, Science and Economic Development (ISED) Canada reported that small/medium enterprises employed 88.3% of the private sector labour force and that between 2019 and 2020 they were responsible for 92% of the employment changes — job losses — in the private sector. Hardest hit though has been the self employed. According to the CFIB, 62% of small businesses have pandemic debt and 78% say they are still experiencing pandemic stress. Meanwhile, back at Public Health in Durham Region, administrators pocketed an average 51% pay increase. At one time in history, people went into the private sector to make a higher salary and went into the public sector for job security. It appears as though the public sector now has a significant edge on both counts. Which begs the question, who is going to pay these public sector salaries if the private sector is struggling? How much longer can we afford to have these people continue to 'look after us'?

"The problem with socialism is that you eventually run out of others peoples' money" - Margaret Thatcher

When health bureaucrats make more than most physicians, executives, frontline workers and private sector workers, it becomes evident that we have reached a point where we can no longer afford our government. The government needs to allow individual citizens to protect their own health; allowing them to keep their bodies healthier as well as their wallets.

Can Britain Break From Feudalism or Will King Charles' Great Reset Go Unchallenged?

By Matthew Ehret

"London Bridge is Down" were the code words delivered by the Queen's Private Secretary Edward Young to high ranking officials upon the death of Queen Elizabeth II.

This code was selected as part of a larger protocol dubbed strangely enough "operation Unicorn" for reasons beyond the wildest imagination of this author and which sets into motion a set of actions culminating in the anointing of Prince Charles as the new King of Britain and the Commonwealth.

For Canadians who had thought they would no longer be forced to endure watching their Prime Minister slavishly declare his oaths of fealty (and oaths of secrecy) to an inbred monarch sitting on the other side of the ocean as had occurred in 2017 (youtube.com/watch?v=xA92oPwKK70) they will be very disappointed. Canada's Parliamentary Oaths Act of 1866 demands that both houses of Parliament are required to take pledges of allegiance after the deaths of all sitting monarchs. That's right, every single member of the supposedly "elected and democratic" government of Canada must declare their oaths of fealty not to the people or non-existent constitution, but to some inbred family bloodline on the other side of the world.

Similar oaths will be read by elected officials across every other Commonwealth Five Eyes member state.

It is thus worth asking, is this institution of hereditary powers which Charles has inherited just a ceremonial gig with no real substance or influence behind it?

Although the majority of citizens including British subjects believe this to be the case, the facts point to a very different reality.

Prince Charles Just Became the World's Largest Property Owner

This may surprise you, but the British Crown happens to be the world's largest property owner clocking in possessions amounting to 6.6 billion acres (businessinsider.com/worlds-biggest-landowners-2011-3) across Australia, New Zealand, Northern Ireland, Canada, Great Britain and the Falkland Islands.

On top of the "Crown Lands" and "Crown Corporations" which are legally owned by the monarch of Britain, an organization called 'The Crown Estate' is one of the world's largest property groups. Describing the institution which sends 25% of its earnings directly into the Monarch's purse every year, Die Welt Business had this to say: (dw.com/en/the-crown-estate-the-mysterious-property-empire-behind-queen-elizabeth-ii/a-57821897)

"The Crown Estate owns property all across the UK, from castles and cottages to agricultural land and forests plus retail parks and shopping centers. It owns more than half the UK's entire seashore, giving it hugely valuable auction rights for offshore commercial activity, such as wind farms."

The Crown controls nearly the entire seabed (and half the seashore) around the UK with any business wishing to build offshore windmills as part of the Green New Deal forced to rent their sea beds from the Crown Estate. It was noted by Byline Times (bylinetimes.com/2021/10/04/windfall-queen-will-be-one-of-the-biggest-beneficiaries-of-uks-green-agenda) that the Crown will stand to become "the biggest beneficiary of UK's Green Agenda" which recently unveiled a 10 point plan for a "green revolution" and full decarbonization by 2050. For anyone confused about the exploding prices of inefficient energy sources across England, they wouldn't get far without appreciating the tax-payer subsidized boondoggle of windmill farms.

Prince Charles himself has demonstrated that he certainly doesn't see the Crown as a symbolic entity and was accused of "incontinent lobbying" in 2013 when dozens of personal letters (dubbed the "Black Spider Memos") (theguardian.com/uk-news/2015/may/13/prince-charles-black-spider-memos-lobbying-ministers-tony-blair) to MPs and the Prime Minister were made public after an intense legal fight to keep them secret. Charles' official biographer Jonathan Dimbleby even wrote in 2013 that upon Charles' succession to the Crown that things would become much more hands on, and "that a quiet constitutional revolution is afoot." (theguardian.com/uk-news/2013/nov/13/prince-charles-65-heir-king-revolution)

Prince Charles and the Great Reset

Charles demonstrated this "more hands on" approach to governance on June 3, 2020 when he became the official patron of the World Economic Forum's Great Reset and even officially launched the project Tweeting out #TheGreatReset. (twitter.com/ClarenceHouse/status/1268187326703898627)

On his official website (princeofwales.gov.uk/thegreatreset), the Prince launched the project saying "Today, through HRH's Sustainable Markets Initiative and the World Economic Forum, The Prince of Wales launched a new global initiative, The Great Reset".

Some of the Prince's remarks delivered at the June 3, 2020 Great Reset address to Davos can be heard here:

Eco Warrior King of a New Crusade

Charles has demonstrated the sort of enthusiasm for decarbonization of the world which one tends to only find in a religious fanatic setting himself up as the eco-warrior of monarchs, a Crusader King of a new religion, except instead of Muslims in the Holy Land, our new Davos-connected eco-crusaders have targeted carbon dioxide and the industrial civilization, farming and useless eaters who cause it, to be the poisonous threat that must be destroyed. (canadianpatriot.org/2022/09/06/the-genocidal-roots-of-the-green-new-deal-the-limits-to-growth-and-the-unchaining-of-prometheus) Charles appears to see himself walking in the footsteps of his WWF-founding father (who famously wished to be reincarnated as a virus to solve overpopulation)(insider.com/prince-philip-quote-reincarnating-deady-virus-resurfaces-twitter-2021-4) as the new leading spokesman for a total transformation of society under a WEF-green governance priesthood.

A July 2022 edition of Australia's Spectator (spectator.com.au/2022/07/prince-charles-great-reset) aptly characterized the Prince's misanthropic activism in the following terms:

"The environmentalism that the Prince has decided to occupy himself with while he awaits to ascend the throne is not a harmless sort of apolitical tree-planting or rainforest-saving activity. He's not hugging pandas or funding wildlife sanctuaries. Instead, he has engaged himself in a hybrid business and political uprising that threatens the survival of the political system which he is meant to oversee. In addition to being a betrayal of the ordinary citizen, his actions represent a failure to his sole duty as future king – to protect the constitutional monarchy from rising climate fascism and globalism."

Of course, it would be silly to believe that Charles were his own man, while ignoring the armada of handlers, courtiers and deeper Byzantine grand strategists who revolve around the Crown as an institution sometimes dubbed "the Fount of All Honors". The Fount of All Honors is an official term which denotes the legal idea that all authority for the public and private affairs emanates from the single source of the Crown and its unbroken bloodline.

Continuity is everything for empire, and the importance of maintaining institutions that transcend individual lifetimes has always been a point of high concern.

In a post-1776 world that began to get a taste for self-government, freedom and democracy as a new mode of self-organization, the "stability" of hereditary institutions came under grave threat. It would not be an exaggeration to say that the past 250 years has been shaped by the clash of these two opposing paradigms of organizing society. Where one paradigm assumes as self-evident the existence of inalienable rights of all people, the other system presumes that the only inalienable rights are those held by an oligarchical master class who wish to rule over subjects (aka: useless eaters) whose population levels must be periodically culled for easier management.

The supposition that rights cannot be granted or withheld by a superior bloodline is truly anathema to any system of oligarchism even if it masquerades behind the costume of a species of democracy designed to placate plebs but not allow them or their representatives the means of influencing anything truly meaningful about their reality.

It is evident that the new incoming King of England has taken on the worst traits and dispositions of oligarchism and probably won't willfully make any positive changes (or learn any useful real world skills) without being pulled by the scruff of the neck.

Perhaps British citizens who have been fed generations of royal propaganda will finally get sick of their new green warrior king before mass famines and death-by freezing sweep across the Commonwealth and decide to catch up with the 21st century and become a real nation.

Chrystia Got Yelled At

By Theo Caldwell

Chrystia Freeland is, as Thomas Hobbes described a state of nature, "nasty, brutish, and short."

You may have come across breathless news accounts of how Freeland, Canada's Deputy Prime Minister, was variously "attacked," "assaulted," or "accosted" (and those are just the A's) by some unruly citizen who temporarily forgot his place and his sleeves.

If you are on a schedule, allow me to cut to the chase: None of this is true. She was not threatened, impeded, or harmed in any way. She was subjected to a harangue no worse than one might expect in a heated exchange over a parking space.

Nevertheless, Canada's state-sponsored media (which is to say, just about the lot of them), has erupted with apoplexy about the safety of politicians, the dignity of public office, and how hard, so very hard, it is to be a woman and do anything or go anywhere.

It practically writes itself. "Growing Concerns" abound, politicians "Condemn" and "Speak Out" in defense of this put-upon damsel who has her own driver.

For what it's worth, I spent about a decade working in Canadian news media and the landscape is like a Hieronymous Bosch painting, only with hairspray in place of flames. It is peopled by the sort of women who have "Growing Concerns" non-stop, and who assume the rest of the population shares their aggrievement.

Before proceeding further, allow me to play Chrystia's advocate for a moment. As a man (kinda), I aver that men ought not to go after women in an angry fashion. Normal people, male and female, will understand my reasoning.

First, it is ungallant, and chivalry is not dead whilst I draw breath. Second, as a practical matter, it is a no-win situation, as just about anyone, this writer included, will intervene on the woman's behalf as a matter of instinct. Finally, notwithstanding the intervention of third parties, there is an intrinsic unfairness to doing so.

Men don't fight much anymore (probably good for me since, as I type, I am a mere hundred-fifty pounds of twisted steel and sex appeal); nevertheless, when two guys start shouting at each other — say, over the last pair of on-sale slacks at Sears or which was the greatest British Prime Minister (answer: Lord Palmerston) — there is at least the theoretical possibility that they will have to back up their words with fists. Again, in this pansified, lactose-intolerant age, it does not happen so often, but it still could, and both men know it.

But when a man argues with a woman, and since we do not live in a Marvel movie or the fevered imagination of a Wesleyan grad, she is unlikely to lift him over her head and toss him through the uprights.

Agree or not, you take my point.

Chrystia's interlocutor, however, violates almost none of these norms. Whoever he is, I would be honored to buy him a pair of Sears slacks, full price. While shouting at politicians in public is not my jam (I repair to my study and write pithy prose — QED), his frustration is apt.

I have previously plagiarized somebody or other who proposed that the next world war will be between citizens and their own governments. As we awake each day to some fresh hell of whatever they are doing to us next ("No booster for you until you finish eating your crickets..."), does this not seem more and more the case?

Chrystia Freeland and her patron, Justin Trudeau — and it cannot be said often enough that there is something seriously wrong with both of them — personify the situation.

Lest we forget, it was only a few months ago that Chrystia stood before the nation, giggling and twitching like the demon-possessed creature I believe her to be (prove me wrong, kids), to proclaim that bank accounts of those who supported the Truckers' Convoy would be frozen. [editors note: The $150,000 Druthers raised for the truckers is STILL frozen]. Word went out to investment houses, financial institutions, and even crypto exchanges, lists were distributed, and citizens who had donated even a few dollars to the cause found their assets seized.

Concurrently, horses trampled protesters, windows were smashed as truckers were violently arrested, and political prosecutions, complete with imprisonment without bail, commenced.

At the time, I wrote that Justin, Chrystia, et al., had violated the tenets of free society such that they ought to be drummed out of public life, prosecuted, and, if convicted, imprisoned. My view is unchanged and it does not exceed the boundaries of civil order to say as much; rather, it bolsters that order, since the nature of free society is sufficiently precious and fragile that its undermining cannot be tolerated.

So yes, Chrystia got yelled at. Canada's federal police force, the RCMP, is "investigating." What, pray tell, is there to investigate? Lavrentiy Beria himself could look through the case until his eyes fall out and find no crime. But this is the nation, and the world, in which we now live.

Even a lesser-known but strikingly handsome scribe such as this one has a remote concern that my accounts will be seized for publishing a piece such as this (joke's on you, coppers — don't spend that all in one place).

The Hobbesian reference at the top was not included merely to give the appearance of sharp cleverness (although there is that). To paraphrase with abandon, Hobbes was describing a broken society, without laws, with no reliable order, in which humanity reverts to its primitive, desperate condition.

Across the formerly free world, normal people are coming to understand that, to whatever extent law exists, its enforcement is capricious. To wit, the favored few are spared (Hunter Biden, call your office), while the unfavored are hounded (Tamara Lich, call your lawyer).

Only a fool would trust his government today, and it would take a madman to believe it has his best interests at heart. Chrystia Freeland, as much as anyone, is responsible for that.

A Message, To the Unvaccinated

By Anonymous

"Even if I were pollinated and fully vaccinated, I would admire the unvaccinated for withstanding the greatest pressure I have ever seen, even from partners, parents, children, friends, colleagues and doctors.

People who were capable of such personality, courage and critical ability are undoubtedly the best of humanity. They are everywhere, in all ages, levels of education, states and ideas. They are of a special kind; they are the soldiers that every army of light wants to have in its ranks. They are the parents that every child wants to have and the children that every parent dreams of having.

They are beings above the average of their societies, they are the essence of the people who have built all cultures and conquered horizons. They are there, next to you, they look normal, but they are superheroes.

They did what others could not, they were the tree that withstood the hurricane of insults, discrimination and social exclusion. And they did it because they thought they were alone, and believed they were the only ones.

Banned from their families' tables at Christmas, they never saw anything so cruel. They lost their jobs, let their careers sink, had no more money ... but they didn't care. They suffered immeasurable discrimination, denunciation, betrayal and humiliation ... but they kept going.

Never before in humanity has there been such a "casting", now we know who are the best on planet Earth. Women, men, old, young, rich, poor, of all races or religions, the unvaccinated, the chosen of the invisible ark, the only ones who managed to resist when everything collapsed.

That's you, you passed an unimaginable test that many of the toughest Marines, Commandos, Green Berets, astronauts and geniuses could not withstand. You are made of the stuff of the greatest who ever lived, those heroes born among ordinary men who glow in the dark."

The globalists manifested their vision. It's time to manifest ours.

By Guy Crittenden

Manifestation is a powerful esoteric practice via which the awakened population can neutralize and overcome the sinister transhumanist and technocratic plans of the globalists. The oligarchs use manifestation to advance their plans; so should we.

It's incredible what they accomplished in just over two years.

The globalists rebranded the seasonal flu and — with the help of staged videos from China — convinced people that a deadly pandemic was ravaging the human population. (As there was no rise in all-cause mortality in 2020, there was no pandemic.) Dr. Fauci convinced doctors to administer deadly and expensive Remdesivir, and not cheap and safe Ivermectin and other drugs. Billions rolled up their sleeves to receive an experimental gene therapy labeled with the spell word "vaccine" that researchers at La Quinta Columna in Spain discovered contains high levels of graphene oxide. Graphene oxide forms complex circuitry and nano-router assemblies in the presence of electromagnetic radiation (e.g., 5G frequencies). This makes a person's metabolism visible to remote monitoring equipment (the internet of bodies or "IoB"), and dramatically amplifies EMF radiation in a person. Hence the massive increase in cancers, heart disease, neurological disorders, and other diseases. The spike protein (which was supposed to remain at the injection site) travels to all major organs, damages testes and ovaries, and crosses the blood-brain barrier. "Sudden Adult Death Syndrome" is now a thing, and the installation of defibrillators at playgrounds is considered normal.

Midwives report highly abnormal placentas, miscarriages, stillbirths, and fetuses that fail to thrive. Funeral homes are bulk-ordering child-size caskets. And the human genome has been contaminated for generations to come. Uninjected people quiver at the prospect of receiving a blood transfusion from an injected person.

Globalist manifestation goes well beyond the biological crisis; in the Bolshevik tradition, their agents and proxies have infiltrated and subverted governments worldwide — a process that's unfolded for decades under the auspices of the World Economic Forum (WEF), whose founder Klaus Schwab openly boasts of having "penetrated the cabinets" of countries like Canada. With the recent nomination of Pierre Poilievre as leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, the leaders of Canada's three main political parties are now all WEF acolytes. Western cultural norms are under attack from a bizarre transgender agenda directed at school-age children from which even gays and lesbians recoil. Via "smart city" initiatives, our urban centers are being converted into digital penal colonies with Hunger Games-style districts. Citizens movements and spending will soon be tightly monitored and controlled via digital IDs and programmable central bank digital currencies (CBDCs). After the economy craters, everyone will be offered a universal basic income (UBI). Essentially: communism.

Primed For Climate Lockdowns

The restrictions of the biofascist state will be supported by the utterly false narrative of anthropogenic global warming, concocted by the Club of Rome in the 1970s and promoted ever since by the United Nations — a corrupt Rockefeller organization originally named the Lucifer Trust. COVID lockdowns conditioned us for climate lockdowns, with threats made visible in the form of droughts and floods brought about by weather manipulation technology, which has existed for decades and was (notably) used by US forces to immiserate the enemy with endless rains during the Vietnam War. Our climate is actually stepping into a deep freeze from an impending Grand Solar Minimum, so people are preparing for exactly the opposite of what's coming.

Importantly, the true multiple purposes of the ginned-up war with Ukraine is now clear. It was launched by WEF graduate Vladimir Putin on the day of the court-ordered release of the Pfizer documents, that the company had hoped to lock up for 75 years, like the JFK assassination files. It made for a great distraction. More importantly, since Ukraine is a major grain exporter, the conflict exacerbates world-wide food shortages and supply chain interruptions. It covers up the corrupt business practices there of the Bush, Clinton and Biden families (see Hunter Biden's laptop), and gave Russia a scripted excuse to shut off natural gas supplies to Europe, which will face a dark winter, indeed.

The CIA is busy laying the groundwork for a phoney attack from hostile UFOs or aliens, about which Nazi scientist and Saturn rocket program leader, Werner Von Braun, warned at the end of his long NASA career. He said it would be the final operation of the long-planned global takeover scheme.

Schwab's "Great Reset" is in full swing

The US Federal Reserve (a private banking cartel) has hyper-inflated the economy with insane money printing such that bubbles in stock, bond and real estate markets are about to burst, and bring a quadrillion dollar derivatives liability down upon our heads. The controlled demolition of the middle class and the US dollar as a world reserve currency will be accomplished. A great depression will ensue, surpassing that of the 1930s, from which a Sino-Russian alliance will emerge as the new leader, built around China's Belt and Road initiative connecting Asian markets with Africa's natural resources, that serves 90% of the global population. The BRICS nations are expanding their membership and Saudi Arabia is poised to dump the petrodollar in favour of a new gold-backed world reserve currency. In a matter of time a one-world government will be implemented, and a one-world religion based in the new "Vatican" in Astana, Kazakstan

Alex Jones book — The Great Reset: And the War for the World— has been released, and urges us to fight back. In doing so, we must remember these shadowy elites derive much of their power from ritual and plans hatched in secret places, from Bohemian Grove to the inner sanctums of Masonic temples and other places portrayed by Stanley Kubrick in his final film, Eyes Wide Shut. We must apply equal conviction to white magic, and rituals that appeal to the light. We can harness the power of intention, and engage in intense visualization exercises to manifest what we want — individually and collectively — as opposed to merely opposing the globalists' plans. Remember, "what we resist persists." Many freedom fighters (myself included) have fallen into the trap of sharing articles and podcasts on social media that report on the globalists' latest moves. This ultimately makes those moves real. Instead, we must meditate upon and articulate the vision of the society we want, and then take action to build that society.

Tribal people have understood this technology for millennia, drawing on the ground or cave walls the animals they sought to hunt successfully. Or intensely imagining rain to end a drought. Such strategies work because they induce the universe — which is electric and magical — to collaborate.

It's not just superstition

It's said the Devil's greatest accomplishment was convincing people he didn't exist. Likewise, the ancient nobility of Europe has convinced most citizens that scientific materialism is reality, and the rest is just primitive superstition. We must imagine the kind of humane world we seek, free of science tyranny, rights and privacy violations, private central banks, and endless for-profit wars — a life-affirming society nestled in a garden planet stewarded by wise and compassionate people.

That's what we must manifest, sincerely and powerfully, while there's still time.

Whom Do Our Elected Officials Serve?

By Alexander MacNeil

Whom do our elected officials serve? Is it the people who elected them — those who placed them into office — or, for many of them, is it someone else — possibly somebody not even a resident of the country that they are designated to serve?

Winston S. Churchill was once purported to have stated that "Democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others".

It is true that improvements could be made to democratic systems to enhance election integrity and expound upon the many factors surrounding true proportional representation. There are issues surrounding the influence of government 'whips' that ensure elected officials vote as their party wants them to, regardless of the impact to their constituents.

There is also the influence of lobbyists — essentially bribing these lawmakers — which really should be investigated with a fine-tooth comb. Big brown envelopes stuffed with cash are seldom used today. Rather, it's gifts and favours, large campaign contributions or lucrative future job offers from these lobbyists that propose the writing of new laws or voting a certain way for or against legislation to the benefit of their clients. It is the current insidious worldwide norm. Stronger regulations should be put in place to hold officials to account for their stirring yet hollow promises and especially, their outright lies!

It is a sad fact that the vast majority of us now accept and even expect as a matter of course, that all politicians lie. As our trust in them the world over has taken a nose dive — plummeting to an all-time low — they should be more accountable to we "the voters" for their actions. That being said however, I would not want to live under any other system of governance and I feel a genuine sorrow for those that are forced to do so.

For those of us that believe in democracy and would like to see it thrive, it is a sad fact that many of us consider the vast majority of our elected officials to be out for themselves, rather than looking out for the best interests of the country they are supposed to be serving.

When taking their official seats each of these office-holders have to swear an Oath of Office or Allegiance. In the UK this is a Parliamentary Oath, in Australia, Canada and New Zealand their officials take an Oath of Allegiance In the USA their officials swear to support and defend their constitution and to bear true faith and allegiance to the same. Finally, those representing the EU swear to act on behalf of the peoples of Europe, to share common values and heritage and to promote individual liberty and human rights.

The words they speak when undertaking these oaths have significance or they are certainly meant to, and there are listed penalties that can be applied for violating an oath of office, though they seldom seem to be enforced.

It is the actions of certain politicians that at present should worry us all, in spite of the solemn words that they pledge to espouse. For how can it be so that certain individuals can adopt their seats of power and yet offer their full allegiance to an organization outside of their governments.

I am speaking of their affiliations to Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO's), which are groups that function independently of any government. They usually operate on a non-profit basis although they can hold millions and even billions in reserves. NGOs are established on community, national, and even international levels and are designed to serve a social or political goal. Some of these organizations are a force for good attempting to better the lives of the populations of third world countries with increased standards of education and health care.

Although there have been some in recent times that have been involved in the sexual exploitation of the very people they were meant to be helping, as in February 2018 a report by the UK's House of Commons International Development Committee found that sexual abuse was "endemic across the international aid sector" and targeted both locals and staff members. This begs the question as to how these organizations can receive government funding (our money), without there being any form of governmental oversight.

With the above example notwithstanding, there are other NGO's which do appear to have far more nefarious aims. I am speaking in particular of the World Economic Forum (WEF) , an international non-governmental and lobbying organization based in Switzerland, which was created in 1971 by Klaus Schwab.

The World Economic Forum is an unaccountable officialdom which convenes annual secret meetings of the world's elite in Davos, Switzerland, with a view to impacting policy decisions on behalf of its members. Stakeholders and members of the WEF include world government leaders, multi-national corporate heads (and yes all of the main ones you can think of are usually in attendance), journalists, activists, cultural leaders and even artists, all of whom collaborate to push forth the WEF's technocratic agendas.

Their principal plan is the "resetting" of the global society for the benefit of private corporations rather than for the people. Their common adversary is the nation state, because national sovereignty and national borders not only preserve local democracy and self-governance but also protect small and medium-sized businesses against the onslaught of the multinationals. Essentially, they want to have control of the world's food, fuel and finances, for by doing this they can in effect control the actions of us all.

The minions of the WEF are legion, from here in the UK and the Republic of Ireland, right across the EU, to Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Japan, and even within the USA and Latin America, all of us have political leaders working in tandem with the WEF to enact their goals.

By way of illustration, the runners in our seeming never ending United Kingdom PM race Liz Truss and Rishi Sunak both have ties to the WEF, so where this situation will lead our country is anyone's guess, but it does seem to be the case that no matter which one of them wins and becomes our next Prime Minister, it will be the people of Great Britain that shall lose.

In Canada the Prime Minister Justin Trudeau is the World Economic Forum's poster boy and his Deputy Prime Minister Chrystia Freeland is so entrenched within the doctrines of the WEF that she is also a member of the Forum's Board of Trustees. If that wasn't bad enough, their so-called opposition and the leader of the unaptly named New Democratic Party Jagmeet Singh is also tied to the WEF, so the poor Canadians are really up against a wall.

French President Emmanuel Macron, who recently lectured his people that they have seen the end of abundance and they must sacrifice, while he gives up absolutely nothing is yes you guessed it, also bound to the WEF.

Mark Rutte the current Prime Minister of the Netherlands and the man wholly responsible for the outright and ongoing theft of farmland from his people while also attempting to cull thirty percent of their livestock is another true believer of the WEF's ideologies.

Jacinda Ardern, the Prime Minister of New Zealand is actually a graduate of the World Economic Forum's Young Global Leaders program which was started by Schwab in 1992. It was originally named the Global Leaders for Tomorrow school, and changed to its current designation in 2004. Amongst the schools very first intake was ex-German Chancellor Angela Merkel, ex-French President Nicolas Sarkozy and last but by no means least, the ex-UK Prime Minister Tony Blair, who remains to this day as an agenda contributor to the WEF. Attendees of this school must apply for admission before undergoing a stringent selection process to gain acceptance and there are currently around 1,300 graduates of this program in governments and in organizations of influence around the world.

In criminology, a political crime is defined as an offence involving overt acts or —omissions where there is a duty to act — which prejudice the interests of the state, its government, or the political system.

So, why are all the above-mentioned people still in office and able to wield power, when they should be in jail for "Political Crimes"? Surely they cannot serve the people that elected them and the World Economic Forum at the same time!

Instead of accepting this plague that is affecting all of our houses, may I suggest that it is long overdue that we thoroughly clean our domiciles and rid ourselves of this carcinogenic infestation at the earliest opportunity. Vote them out, prosecute them if you can for maleficence in public office, as these people can no longer be allowed to get away with acting in direct contravention towards the best interests of their citizens. No longer can these few be responsible for what has such dramatic and dire impacts to the lives of the many, but in the end this will be down to all of you. How long are you going to let these people get away with their unlawful autocracy, which is being put forth as, but is absolutely nothing at all akin to democracy?

Are You a Lonely Truth Speaker?

By StopWorldControl.com

Are you one of those lone rangers who have been seeing the plans of the New World Order for a long time, while nobody ever took notice?

This message is to strengthen you…

I see many lone warriors, lions without a pack, who have gone through endless deserts, mocked and despised by friends and family, because you see, you hear, you understand, and you know. You are not a dumbed down slave of high level crooks. You are a human being with wide open senses, and a heart that KNOWS things can be done differently.

We respond to something from deep within. A voice that the wicked have lost long ago. A sense that is so strong, we are willing to lose all else, to follow it. A voice that's stronger than the insane intimidation of the media. A light that's brighter than the flickering flashes of television and entertainment.

We hear it, we feel it, we see it, and we follow it.

This is the power that will take down the wicked: the members of humanity who are awakened by something stirring so strong, they cannot resist it. It's an army rising up all over the world, with one voice, one vision, one hope.

We want goodness. We want health. We want truth. We want a world without the superrich corrupt madmen, who sacrifice literally everything - even their own souls - for more power.

The eagles join as one!

I encourage you to join this global army of children of the light. Truth warriors. Lone lions. Soaring eagles. Those who are watched by dimensions so much higher than we can ever imagine, because they see bravery in us.

They see purity in our hearts. They see hunger that is instilled in our souls by the One who is calling us.

This unity is beautiful, and powerful. The powers of wickedness have done all they can, to divide humanity. They divided us through religions, and even inside one religion they have divided us with countless different doctrines. In Christianity alone there are thousands of different denominations that all fight each other. Unbelievable!

But this war, that is threatening every single one of us, wipes away all these differences, and unites humanity more than ever. We see the threat, we understand there are powers that have decided to kill many of us, and enslave the others. Therefore we unite, despite our differences.

Humanity and its Creator against the wicked and their demons.

The future is bright

I encourage you to let out the roar from deep inside of you. It's not only your own roar, it comes from deeper, it resounds from on high, it serves a greater purpose.

We are not just fighting for ourselves. This is not a 'save me' movement.

It's an awakening that has eternal purposes. The veil of blinding deception that covered mankind for centuries, is being lifted, and for the first time we wake up. First in a horrible nightmare, where we see how the media is totally criminal, the governments are puppet theaters with strings that lead up into deep darkness, where psychopaths with trillions of dollars are manipulating our entire world. That's the RUDE awakening. Horrible, frightening, devastating.

But then we see there is a bright light that penetrates through it all. A light that is so strong, it is almost unreal. A light of hope for the future.

There is hope, dear people. The future is bright. We have to see the intense darkness covering the earth, before we can get rid of it, and step into the brightness of a hopeful future.

Dare to lift your voice

Let your voice be heard. Be the single one in your environment who lights a light for the others. Be the rare rooster that cries out in the dark, to wake up others, so they can see a new day dawning.

Dare to speak. Dare to be mocked. Accept it. Don't be afraid of the attacks.

You are shining a light in the depths of the darkness, that WILL have its effect. One seed can create an entire forest, remember this. One spark sets a whole woodland on fire. One sound can stir an army to arise from its slumber.

So speak out. Share the truth.

Progress in Court Cases and Big Hearings in the Fall

By Cam James

A number of legal challenges emerged countering mandates, restrictions, and government overreach. Most resolutions to date were in favour of protesters and those opposing government mandates. The fines imposed on Artur Pawlowski, as well as many other Canadians, were thrown out in court and many protesters have been released. Overall, public support for harsh treatment is waning.

Here are a few of the major cases starting or continuing this fall mounted by civil liberties groups:

JCCF- The Justice Centre for Constitutional Freedoms

https://jccf.ca

The JCCF is supporting past Newfoundland Premiere Hon. Brian Peckford and others in the trial Peckford et al. v. Transport Minister. They wished to challenge the entirety of the COVID mandates and restrictions but had to pick a specific violation for the courts. Their argument claims the travel ban directly infringes upon section 2, 6, 7 and 15 of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

The travel ban was announced in October of 2021 and the case filed the following January. In May and June the JCCF cross-examined five government expert witnesses and compiled 14,000 pages of evidence. The governments-chosen experts had some shaky grounds for support of the mandate:

- Celia Lorenko, approved the vaccines as they were, "above 50% effective" and later admitted that it was closer to 20% effective and after mutation protection disappeared nearly completely.
- Fertility expert, Paula Quinn, when asked about the Pfizer data dump, stated she had not heard of it.
- Jennifer Little, a member of the COVID response team, stated there was no medical reason for the domestic travel ban and it was the most strict in the world, suggesting vaccine mandates were politically motivated.

The Liberals announced the suspension of the travel ban during these cross-examinations and requested that the case be rendered moot. After the dates for hearing were released they were pushed back several times. The mootness hearing is September 20 and the main hearing was set for October 31, if not determined obsolete. They are also challenging vaccine mandates in Ontario.

An earlier challenge lead to a cross-examination of Deena Hinshaw and the release of memos which revealed she may have perjured herself. They are waiting on a trial date for a challenge against ArriveCAN. Seneca College students are being supported by the JCCF against campus mandates.

CCLA-Canadian Civil Liberties Association

The CCLA is pushing a challenge to the use of the emergencies act, separate from the public hearing. They recently pressed a related motion to compel the government to release more documents. These were claimed to be protected by cabinet confidence. Liberals will be scrutinized more heavily and will need to broaden their provisions and reduce redactions in some capacities going forward. Justice Mosely determined there should be more scrutiny to what falls under cabinet confidence. These files will be made available in the coming weeks.

The Supreme Court will hear the CCLA's views on broadening cabinet confidence use in relation to transparency and oversight in an unrelated case.

TDF – The Democracy Fund

TDF is mounting cases for the students of Western University and University of Toronto in response to mandates on campus in the fall. They have written letters to the Universities recommending alternatives that are less disruptive, but will likely need to resolve the issue in court. The cross-examinations in these kinds of cases elucidated much obscured or protected information. Preliminary scheduling commenced on September 9 for the trial concerning Western.

A notice of application was filed against the Minister of Health over the ArriveCAN app. The government has been relying on the Quarantine Act to justify most mandates and restrictions. TDF is arguing that the imposition and forced collection of personal data violates the Charter of Rights and would not be justified by the Quarantine Act.

Public Order Emergency Commission into the use of the Emergencies Act

Civil liberties groups including the JCCF, TDF and CCF will be involved in Rouleau Commission (https://publicorderemergencycommission.ca), an inquiry that is enshrined in the Emergencies Act. The justice appointed by the Liberals is a long-time Liberal donor and the legal groups expect more disruptions to the processes. This commission has been delayed as Justice Rouleau is currently recovering from surgery where it will now resume October 13 and conclude November 25.

Did You Have an Adverse Reaction to the Covid Shot?

By Michelle Zeh

As Fall is upon us, the government and mainstream media are brazenly pushing Canadians to take yet another Covid booster before flu season. In fact, although Canadian Health Minister Jean Yves Duclos told Canadians they'd need a shot in the arm every nine months to stay 'up-to-date', Canada's National Advisory Committee on Immunization (NACI) recommends boosting every three months — and that's on top of the flu shot!

The US Department of Health and Human Services' Vaccine Adverse Events Reporting System (VAERS), co-sponsored by the US Centers For Disease Control (CDC) and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is a place where adverse events to ANY vaccine can be reported by individuals or their health care providers from anywhere in the world. It is reportedly not user friendly but rather antiquated, time-consuming, cumbersome and very limiting — by design I'm sure. As their website states: "Underreporting" is one of the main limitations of passive surveillance systems, including VAERS. The term, underreporting refers to the fact that VAERS receives reports for only a small fraction of actual adverse events". This fact is rather frightening as there have been over 30,000 deaths and 57,000 permanent disabilities associated with Covid-19 injections reported to VEARS, as captured by the good people at OpenVAERS. (https://openvaers.com/covid-data)

Team Enigma are a group of individuals who have come together to expose the danger of the experimental Covid injections. Team member Mike Yeadon — Former CSO and VP of Pfizer— describes them as a group of researchers with experience in Pharmaceutical R&D and manufacturing, clinical trials, pharmaceutical industry regulations, data analysis and modelling, and statistics. Team members are located worldwide and are doing independent analyses of the same data. They are financially and politically independent thus not influenced by government and Big Pharma money and pressure. Using the VAERS reports, they break down the report data by manufacturer, lot number, total number of reports received, number of permanent disabilities and deaths. They are able to demonstrate how many reported injuries are associated with a lot number, by country or globally. Dr. Yeadon also says that approximately 5% of the lots are responsible for 90% of all adverse reactions. Some of the batches have 50 times the number of deaths and disabilities associated with them, compared to other lots.

If you are injured or simply want to know whether the shots you took — either willingly or through coercion — caused injury to others, please got to www.howbad.info and click "Check Your Lot Number (Latest Data)". If you don't see your lot number, it means that VAERS hasn't received any adverse event reports.

Important: If you are in Canada and if you have had an adverse event to a Covid shot, there is now a place to submit your report and also to get help if you're suffering. Please visit www.caers.info for more information. You can also read their blog at https://caers.substack.com

Why Russia and China Do Not Want War

By Ralph T. Kenney

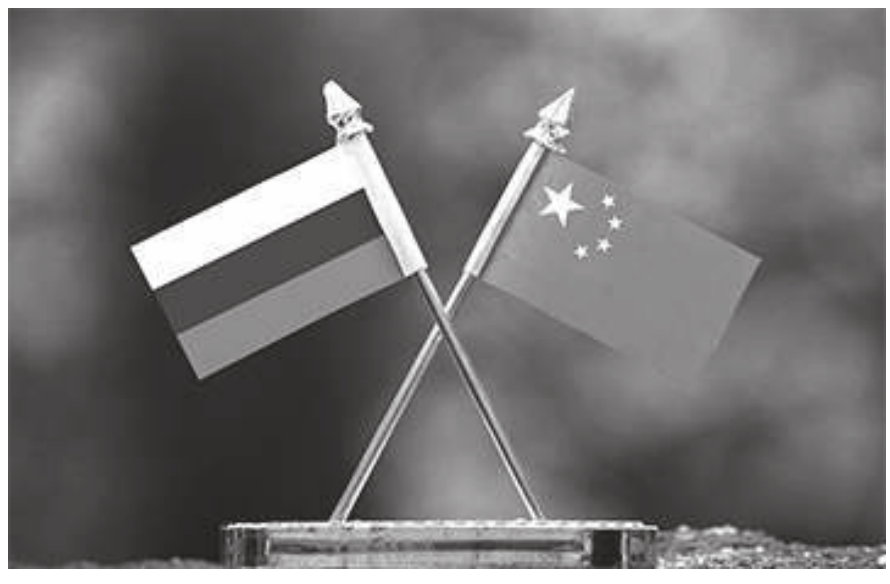
In 1961, a Soviet KGB secret intelligence General named Anatoliy Golitsyn defected to the USA and brought startling news which has been downplayed and hidden by the establishment ever since. He predicted the "collapse of Communism" about 30 years before it happened. Golitsyn, who had been privy to Soviet long-term planning, claimed the coming "collapse of communism" was really phase 2 of the Cold War. He revealed that the international communists realized in 1957 that they could never defeat us by war. Therefore they planned to conquer us by more subtle means. The new strategy to be used against us was called "convergence."

Convergence is a multifaceted strategy to remake the meaning and composition of our way of life into another form, by peaceful steps. It is war without guns, financed by our money and implemented by "our" leaders. One facet of convergence is immigration. There is no longer much need for spies, when their people can simply take up residency here. The West now has millions of foreigners in our governments, corporations, universities and even religious institutions. By simply replacing our population, or at least the majority of voters, we become a totally transformed culture. The attendant multiculturalism changes the meaning and focus of society into an alien pattern. The breakdown in morality which has happened since 1957 leaves people directionless, with no solid understanding of right and wrong to defend against the overall assault. All this is convergence.

The new communist plan is essentially the Oriental strategy laid out by the ancient Chinese philosopher, Sun Tzu. In his book, The Art of War, Sun Tzu stressed that wars should primarily be fought by deception, rather than physical combat. He stressed that, by removing our perception of them as an enemy, they can walk right into our camp and take us over from within. That is another facet of convergence which has been successfully used against us.

Russia has a solid, mutual defense pact with China, so a war with Russia means war with China too. In the past 30 years, most of our industries have been moved to communist China, thanks to billionaire communists in our midst. The time to fight China would have been before we made them into a major power. As it stands, if we fight a war with China, we'll have to beg for a truce every couple of weeks, so they can resupply us.

Why would the "former Communist" nations risk money and blood to overcome us, when their long-term plan is working so well? But the fact that the "former communists" do not want war does not mean we won't have it. The late historian Eustace Mullins wrote that, back in the 1800's, the World Order planned three world wars. The first was to create the atheist state (USSR and Red China). The second would make the atheist state into a world power (WW2). The third war would destroy both atheism and Christianity at the same time, so that pure Lucifer-worship would reign unopposed, globally.



"Our" leaders are working hard to start that war, today, in Ukraine. President Biden and Canadian Deputy Prime Minister Chrystia Freeland have both called for regime change in Russia.

The war is also being started on another, subtler level, through crippling economic sanctions against Russia. The purpose of sanctions is to provoke war. It is important to bear in mind here that the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbour was in retaliation for similar sanctions against Japan. The sanctions on Russia work both ways, too. They weaken and impoverish Western populations dependent on Russian food, petroleum, etc. All this is part of the globalist plan to depopulate the earth.

The World Order often uses the same tricks over and over, so here another parallel with WW2 comes to mind. "Our" leaders always want to appear as the guys in the white cowboy hats, so they provoke other nations to attack and then pretend to "defend" against that. As outlined in the 1976 best-seller, A Man Called Intrepid, before WW2, the British secret service organized "secret armies" in several nations of Europe. Today, these would be called terrorist organizations. After WW1, a big chunk of Germany was given to Poland. The secret army there began killing the German minority population. People in Germany wanted to protect them. Hitler feared that invading Poland would give the UK an excuse to start a war but after 10,000 Germans had been murdered, he invaded anyway and Britain immediately declared war. How much the allies really cared about Poland became clear after the war, when Poland was handed over to the enslaving USSR. The same strategy is being used against Putin today, in the Ukraine, where the Ukrainian government has been persecuting and killing the minority Russian population of Donbass. It is naïve to believe that "our" leaders really care about the poverty-ridden people of Ukraine. Once again, they are using a little country to start a big war. At the same time, the same leaders are provoking a fight with China over Taiwan.

So the Russians and Chinese do not want war but it looks like we might get it anyway. That communism and capitalism are "opposites" is establishment propaganda. The capitalists own the communists and they always did. The Bolshevik Revolution in Russia was financed by $25,000,000 in gold from New York banker Jacob Schiff. Communist and environmental activism in the West would never have gained a foothold without constant grants from capitalist foundations. It is enlightening to notice the billionaire leaders of Red China, who easily manage to be capitalists and communists at the same time. Capitalism and communism are merely two features of Third World culture, where a few rich people control all the money and the remainder are held in destitution by rigid rules—a way of life which the World Order has in mind for us.

Anatoliy Golitsyn wrote two books to warn us of the new communist strategy. They are New Lies For Old and The Perestroika Deception. Now that we can see the strategy coming true, they are more interesting than ever.

Quadruple vaxxed Pfizer CEO tests COVID-19 positive for second time in a month

By Dr. William Makis

He [Pfizer CEO, Albert Bourla] took Paxlovid the first time. Either he is lying or has Paxlovid rebound.

"I've not had the new bivalent booster yet"

It's hard to imagine that anyone is still willing to take Pfizer products at this point in time.

Ontario Pfizer shill Doctor Michelle Cohen continues to mock her 32 dead young Canadian doctor colleagues "The fake Canadian doctor vaccine death story is continuing to circulate....it's all still nonsense"

Nonsense??? We have 32 dead doctors. Obituaries. The Colleges of Physicians and Surgeons record them as "deceased".

There are Canadian doctors who are incredibly stupid (especially the ones lining up for their 4th and 5th jabs). Then there are those who are incredibly evil. Doctor Michelle Cohen exhibits a level of evil and psychopathy that's very difficult for me to wrap my head around. She obviously doesn't care that her colleagues are dying. But does she have to be so unbelievably callous about it?

News: 32 young Canadian doctors "died suddenly" in the past 16 months while fully COVID-19 vaccinated!

I have now tracked 32 Canadian doctor sudden deaths (thank you to all who contributed). These doctors were actively practicing medicine & were healthy prior to taking illegally mandated COVID-19 Vaccines (2, 3 or 4 doses).

I've sent a letter to Canadian Medical Association (CMA) Presidents Dr. Alika Lafontaine & Dr. Katharine Smart, both of whom supported COVID-19 Vaccine mandates on all of Canada's 92,000 doctors and I urged them to call for IMMEDIATE termination of all COVID-19 Vaccine mandates in Canada's healthcare, as well as Investigations & Public Inquiries into these sudden deaths.

CMA cannot continue to ignore this catastrophe. Please circulate!

Albert Davis @
I would like to let you know that I have tested positive for #COVID19. I am thankful to have received four doses of the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine, and I am feeling well while experiencing very mild symptoms. I am isolating and have started a course of Paxlovid.

Albert Davis @
I have tested positive for COVID. I'm feeling well & symptom free. I've not had the new bivalent booster yet, as I was following CDC guidelines to wait 3 months since my previous COVID case which was back in mid-August. While we've made great progress, the virus is still with us.

News From Around The World

By Paul Bennett

Former BBC Radio Presenter Jailed For "Online Stalking"

A popular British YouTube presenter and ex BBC employee has been jailed for five and a half years for a 'campaign of harassment' against BBC employees and journalists.

Over a nine-year period, the court heard that Alex Belfield posted regular messages on his social media accounts, sent emails, and made YouTube videos about the four complainants including Jeremy Vine. Belfield justified his online actions by stating: "I am a journalist who is instinctively going to upset people by the nature of what I do. Nobody wants to be exposed. Nobody wants to be caught out."

Belfield's charges stated that he "pursued a course of conduct that amounted to harassment of the complainants", which caused them "serious alarm and distress" and "amounted to stalking." According to the Yorkshire Evening Post," Belfield denies eight counts of stalking spanning a period between 2012 and 2021, after his contract with BBC Radio Leeds was not renewed."

Despite the deceiving mainstream headlines, Mr Belfield was not accused of physical stalking against the complainants, who were mostly made up of current or former BBC staff. Prosecutor John McGuinness said: "The stalking which this case is concerned with is of a different type-and is more akin to internet trolling."

BBC top earner Jeremy Vine described Belfield's online behaviour as "like an avalanche of hatred you get hit by", and "absolutely Olympic-level stalking, even for broadcasting." In a despicable comparison, Vine labelled Belfield the "Jimmy Savile of Trolling" in court. He said: "This is not a regular troll here. This is the Jimmy Savile of Trolling." Vile and evil Jimmy Savile was an BBC employee for decades and is one of the UK's most serial sexual predators ever seen.

Belfield responded to the deplorable association with Savile by saying: "What possible reason could Jeremy Vine have said this in front of you other than to destroy me and get the headline of the century, which he did. He thought of the most evil, awful person in media history and compared him to me. For him to associate me with Jimmy Savile is unthinkable."

Melodramatic Vine continued, "it felt like I had a fishhook in my face and my flesh was being torn, and the only way to avoid further pain was to remain completely still." Belfield called Vine's antics in court as "the cleverest razzle dazzle I've ever seen."

Belfield who defended himself in court said in his closing speech that the BBC was trying to "shut me up" because of "inconvenient truths". He added: "As a whistle-blower of the BBC, I was there for 15 years and I saw where the bodies are buried, if you like, and I saw where they wasted money."

Belfield told the court he has a right to freedom of speech and had legitimate reasons for posting the messages. During the court hearing Belfield told the jury: "I'm a Nottingham lad with a potty mouth and I speak as I find it, and I appreciate that's not to everyone's taste. People who claim I was stalking them were actively seeking out my content. Human rights allow me to have free speech in this country, until you are given bail conditions where you cannot speak."

Popular online political and social observer Paul Joseph Watson (PJW) tweeted about the case: "5 years in prison for 'online harassment' (tweets mainly) while members of grooming gangs up and down the country avoid jail. Absurd."

Belfield hosted a YouTube channel called The Voice of Reason with a large, subscribed following over 350,000. Belfield is often described as a 'marmite' type presenter and is known for his sneery, crude sarcastic language. His presenting style is not to everyone's taste as he mentioned at Nottingham Crown Court.

However, the severe custodial sentencing handed out to Alex Belfield for 'cyber stalking', or serious online trolling sets a worrying precedent for the future of free speech online and plays nicely into the hands of advocates for the UK Online Safety Bill proposed.

The sentencing appears politically motivated and entirely disproportionate to the alleged crimes he committed. The apparent witch-hunt and piling on from the BBC during the case may act as a deterrent to anyone wishing to go up against large institutions in the future.

Nigeria Bans Foreign Models and Voiceovers in Adverts

Nigeria is unapologetically banning foreign models and voiceovers from advertisements in a move to develop and promote indigenous Nigerian talent.

The Advertising Regulatory Council of Nigeria (ARCON) said in a statement on August 22: "All advertisements, advertising, and marketing communications materials are to make use of only Nigerian models and voiceover artists. Ongoing campaigns are permitted to run out their terms, however, subsequent applications for revalidation for continued exposure of such materials will not be granted by the Advertising Standards Panel (ASP). Advertisers, advertisement agencies, media houses advertising community and the general public are hereby enjoined to take note."

Head of ARCON, Olalekan Fadolapo, said: "Advertising should resonate with people. How do you think it will resonate if we keep using foreign artists?"

Steve Babaeko, president of the Association of Advertising Agencies of Nigeria told the UK Times: "Ten to 20 years ago if you checked the commercials, I would say they were almost 50/50 in terms of foreign faces and all the voiceovers were British accents." He added, "People will tell you, there are about 200 million of us. Are you telling me you could not find indigenous models for these commercials?" Babaeko believes the new law in the former British colony will act as a 'kind of renaissance' to ignite confidence in local artists and bolster the Nigerian economy.

British-Nigerian author, Lotanna Igwe-Odunze, reacted to the prioritization of Nigerian talent by saying: "The government banned foreign models, not white models. White models are foreign to Nigeria, so of course, they are naturally banned, however, the bans bars anybody who simply isn't Nigerian. Huge difference."

One has to wonder what would happen if Nigerian models were banned from other countries? 'Tolerant liberals' must be engaging in 'mental gymnastics' regarding the 'Nigeria First' policy.

The ban is in line with the country's federal government policy to grow local talent and improve the economic growth of the country. Nigeria's brazenness and ingenuity to solely focus on creating new jobs for local indigenous talent should be admired and applauded.

The ban will come into effect from October 1 which also happens to be Nigerian Independence Day.

Brave Irish Teacher Jailed Over Pronoun Dispute in Secondary School

A secondary school teacher has been jailed for refusing to use the pronoun "They" in a controversial High Court case in Ireland. Enoch Burke from Co. Mayo was imprisoned for contempt of court after refusing to adhere to a court order secured from his school over the issue of gender identity.

The disagreement began in May when an email was sent by the principal of Wilson's Hospital School in Co. Westmeath asking all teachers to use the pronoun "They" for a male student transitioning. Based on religious grounds, Mr Burke said he would refuse to call the student their requested pronouns and publicly confronted the then principal of the school over his concerns during the summer. As a result of his objections, Mr Burke was placed on paid administrative leave from teaching at the school pending the outcome of a disciplinary process.

In September, the situation intensified when despite the suspension, Mr Burke attended the school and sat in an empty classroom willing to teach his students. Concerned, the debacle may cause disruption to pupils, the Church of Ireland school in Multyfarnham secured an ex-parte temporary High Court injunction preventing Mr Burke from either teaching at its premises or from teaching any classes at the school while he remained under suspension. According to the Irish Independent: "*Despite this order, he continued to come to the school each morning. This led to a further application from the board of management, and Ms Justice Miriam O'Regan ordered on Friday that Mr Burke be arrested and brought before the cour*t."

Addressing the court and representing himself without legal assistance, Mr Burke said: "I am a teacher, and I don't want to go to prison. I want to be in my classroom today, that's where I was this morning when I was arrested." Mr Burke has been a teacher at the school for the past four years.

The German and History teacher also responded to his suspension from school and contempt of court by saying: "It is extraordinary and reprehensible that someone's religious beliefs on this matter could ever be taken as grounds for an allegation of misconduct. My religious beliefs are not misconduct. They are not gross misconduct. They never will be. They are dear to me. I will never deny them and never betray them, and I will never bow to an order that would require me to do so. It is just not possible for me to do that."

During the court hearing on September 5, Justice Michael Quinn was satisfied that Mr Burke breached the injunction and was in contempt of court. He said, "I order he be committed to Mountjoy Prison and remain therein until he purges his contempt or until further order of this court." Enoch Burke responded passionately to the court outcome by saying: "It is insanity that I will be led from this courtroom to a place of incarceration, but I will not give up my Christian beliefs."

Once again, the international issue of compelled speech and the imposition of transgender ideology is showing its ugly fascist head again. Renowned Canadian Psychologist Jordan Peterson warned society in 2016 that once you make 'Gender Identity' a protected class, you are compelling people to use speech against their own logic, reality, and belief system. Jordan Peterson recently commented on his Facebook page about the Burke case: "I said very clearly in 2016 that the first people jailed for 'pronoun misuse' would be dragged through the courts and then hit with contempt charges. "Nobody will be jailed for pronouns" was the reaction. Wrong. More than once now."

At the time of writing, Mr Burke is still enslaved at Mountjoy Prison in Dublin. Enoch Burke told the court: "If this court so determines, I will never leave Mountjoy Prison if in leaving the prison I violate my well-informed conscience and religious belief and deny my God."

Absurdity Observer

Some Of The Most Absurd Things That Have Happened In Recent Weeks

- An Ottawa police officer accused of donating money to the Freedom Convoy has been charged with misconduct. Constable Kristina Neilson has been accused of acting in "a disorderly manner ... bringing discredit upon the reputation of the Ottawa Police service" for donating to a fund where "the money was being raised for the illegal occupation known as the Freedom Convoy."
- Ottawa police detective charged for seeking links between COVID vaccine and child deaths. Ottawa Police detective with the sexual assault and child abuse unit, Helen Grus, is facing a charge of Discreditable Conduct after investigating unexplained deaths of children with potential links to the Covid 19 vaccines.
- Saskatoon woman dies suddenly inside of a Shopper's Drug Mart within minutes of receiving the new bivalent COVID-19 booster shot. A spokesperson from Saskatchewan Health announced that Carol Pearce died from "natural causes," but the family disagrees. "I do not believe this was caused from natural causes," Pearce's daughter said. "My Mom had no health conditions. I believe had she not gotten that Covid shot then she would be here with us today!" Carol and her daughter were pro-vaccine, getting all of the required COVID-19 shots.
- Health Canada approves Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine for kids six months to four years old despite the company's own data showing the vaccine increased the risk of COVID-19-related hospitalizations by 3 times. The vaccine also showed little to no efficacy after doses 1 and 2.
- COVID Vaccine destroys natural immunity, a large study published in The NEJM (Lin et al.) says. The study, conducted by public health researchers at the UNC and the North Carolina Department of HHS, found the efficacy of Pfizer's COVID-19 vaccine in children age 5 to 11 was not only negative some 5 months after being vaccinated (meaning, the vaccinated are more likely to be infected) but that the vaccine also destroyed any protection a child had to COVID from naturally acquired immunity.
- City of Toronto ad campaign suggests kids must be vaccinated for Covid to enjoy a normal life. The manipulative campaign, aimed at parents and caregivers implied that children need Covid vaccines so they can get back to a normal life. One ad showed children being isolated from school and their friends because "there's still something going around."
- Study finds that today's children are 30% less aerobically fit than their parents were at their age. Strangely, the study, published in Temperature (Morrison et al.) points to "climate change" and rising temperatures adversely affecting childhood obesity, as children spend less time exercising outdoors.
- Long-term scores for NAEP ("The Nation's Report Card") shows an unprecedented decline for kids in math and literacy. Two decades of growth for American students in reading and math were wiped out by just 2 years of plandemic-disrupted learning.
- Leaked Documents Reveal Serious Quality Issues in the mRNA Vaccines. Leaked emails from late 2020 revealed that European regulators had significant concerns over the lack of intact mRNA in the commercial batches sampled. Compared to the clinical batches (the shots used in the clinical trial,) 55% to 78% of the commercial shots had "a significant difference in % RNA integrity." For an effective product, mRNA integrity needs to be 100%. Considering how ineffective the jabs are, it's fair to question whether lack of mRNA integrity might be to blame.

- Study published in The Journal of Clinical Medicine (Fujio et al.) finds that vaccinated patients are rejecting cornea transplants at an exceptionally high rate. The study found that of all the patients experiencing corneal rejection, 95% of patients had a COVID vaccination within the last 3 weeks.
- Weeks after California announces a ban on the sale of gasoline cars in the name of climate change, California also tells its residents not to charge their electric cars to avoid "straining the grid." Fuelling private jets and other activities and modes of transportation used by the elite are ok.
- FBI told Facebook, Hunter Biden's laptop was "Russian disinformation." According to Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg and several FBI whistleblowers, the FBI worked actively to deceive Facebook into censoring information about Hunter Biden and the 2020 election. In light of these allegations, the bureau responded, "the FBI routinely notifies U.S. private sector entities, including social media providers, of potential threat information, so that they can decide how to better defend against threats."
- Chris Cox, the Chief Product Officer at Meta (Facebook) Platforms, testified at a Senate hearing that Meta held regular meetings with CDC, the HHS, and the World Health Organization to help shape their misinformation policies and censor user's speech. A Freedom of Information Act Request by ICAN (the Informed Consent Action Network) found that the CDC even celebrated the removal of prominent anti-vaxers from social media platforms in group emails.
- The UK government introduces stringent anti-protest law where they can act on "noisy protests that have a significant impact on others" or disrupt an organization's activities. This new law resulted in female protesters being arrested after the queen's death. One for holding sign saying "abolish monarchy, Fuck imperialism", another for holding a "not my king" sign, and another for yelling "you're an old sick man" to Prince Charles.
- The World Economic Forum promotes brain implants to children. In a blog post posted to their website, The World Economic Forum (WEF) called on governments, health officials, and "humans" around the globe to consider their arguments for implanting chips in children's brains, stating that they form part of a natural evolution that wearables once underwent.
- New study published in Science Direct (Fraiman et al.) finds that the risk of serious adverse events from either the Pfizer or Moderna mRNA vaccine greatly surpassed the risk reduction for COVID-19 hospitalization relative to the placebo group. Meaning: the vaccine recipients' risk of experiencing a serious vaccine injury was greater than the unvaccinated risk of being hospitalized for COVID (57% more likely for Moderna, 77% more likely for Pfizer).
- The average lifespan of Americans of all ethnicities has dropped nearly 3 years in the last 3 years, CDC study says. In 2019, the average American life expectancy was nearly 79 years. By the end of 2021, life expectancy had dropped to 76. Before the plandemic, global life expectancy was consistently getting higher by a few months every year.
- The Ministry of Environment & Climate Change Canada is hiring "climate police" and building a new Climate Enforcement facility in Winnipeg. The Facility will be home to an armoury, interrogation rooms, biological labs, media relations offices, "controlled quiet rooms," and intelligence facilities. The Ministry is currently looking to recruit a battalion of Climate "Pollution" Officers, a unit within the coldly named "Environmental Enforcement Directorate." The Impact Assessment Act, which was quietly passed in the final days of Trudeau's majority government, grants sweeping power to Ministerial Climate Police, including the power to enter premises without a warrant to "verify compliance or prevent non-compliance with [the Act]."
- Mainstream media refuses to apologize for calling Ivermectin an ineffective horse paste. A study published in the medical journal Cureus (Kerr et al.), analyzed data from 223,128 people from Brazil and is the largest study of its kind. The peer-reviewed paper showed a 92% reduction in mortality in participants who took Ivermectin. Researchers wrote, "Non-use of Ivermectin was associated with a 12.5-fold increase in mortality rate and a seven-fold increased risk of dying from COVID-19 compared to the regular [prophylactic] use of Ivermectin. This dose-response efficacy reinforces the prophylactic effects of Ivermectin against COVID-19."
- The FDA authorized Pfizer's mRNA COVID bivalent boosters without any human testing. It was tested on a total of eight mice. The FDA did not allow members of its Vaccines and Related Biological Products Advisory Committee (VRBPAC) to meet, discuss or vote on the matter.
